The announcement that an old woman who plays a hand organ on the streets of Denver, Col., is worth $100,000 may give the hand organ business a boom; but every town in this country isn't a Denver.

The Republicans of Brooklyn, N. Y., are splitting up into Platt and anti-Platt factions. That's a way they have of amusing themselves when there is no loot in sight. When the loot shows up they will come together like cats around a dish of milk.

Alfred E. Burr, editor of the Hartford Daily Times, recently celebrated his 80th birthday. He has been doing editorial work for fifty-four years and still, from force of habit, goes to the office every day and helps to save the country as usual.

Dr. Parkhurst who spent some time in Chicago recently, says he found only two kinds of people there, one who believe the town has reached the pinnacle of perfection, and the other who believe it is on the down grade to the demnition bow-wows, and that praying and saltpetre couldn't save it. The crust on which Chicago is built is pretty thin, too.

The appraisers of the property of Mrs. Hannah Rolf, who died at Terre Haute, Ind., about ten days ago, struck a bonanza when they began prospecting the premises. She was supposed to be worth between $2,000 and $3,000, but they discovered hid away in various places in her house money, notes, mortgages, &c., to the amount of $40,000, one-third of which was left by will to her husband and the remainder to a sister in Germany.

Secretary Hoke Smith wants Secretary Lamont to tell him whether the Seminole war is over yet or not. There is a case pending in his department involving lands formerly occupied by the Seminoles, and one of the parties interested claims that the war has never been officially declared ended. If it hasn't been officially ended it must be still officially going on and that's what Mr. Smith wants to find out from Mr. Lamont, who is supposed to know its official status.

A story comes from Paris about a rich Chicago woman who left her shopping bag in the cab she rode in, and didn't discover her loss until after she had entered a store, and the cab was out of sight. The bag contained 5,000 francs, some valuable black pearls and diamonds. She didn't become excited, however, as some women would have done, but informed the police department and awaited results. Next day the bag was returned to her, with the information that the cabman had left it at the police station. Thereupon she sent for the cabman, questioned him, found that he was a man of family, and insisted on his taking the 5,000 francs as a reward for his honesty. When remonstrated with by her friends for her excessive liberality, she said that such honesty was so rare that it should be suitably rewarded, and she was so glad to get her jewels back that she didn't care for the money, neither of which she would have seen if this accident had happened in America. But it must be remembered that this was a Chicago woman, and that this is a French story.

Judge Taintor, of the Jefferson Market (New York) Police Court, was put in a perplexing position a few days ago. A woman appeared before him and asked that he issue an order requiring her husband, (who had deserted her,) to support her and her children. He was an all-round crook, who stole for a living and had just come out of prison where he had been sent for stealing a watch. His wife admitted that he had supported her and her children previous to the desertion by stealing, and the crook admitted that that was his business, and said he was willing to give a portion of his "earnings" to support his wife and children. That's where the puzzle came in. The judge felt that issuing the order would be like requiring him to go and steal and divide the proceeds, and he took twenty-four hours to ponder it.

The woollen manufacturers of Massachusetts have increased the wages of their employes from 10 to 15 per cent. So much for free wool.

THE STRAWBERRY CROP.

Berries Will Be Plentiful Further South, but the Crop Will Be Late Everywhere.

Indications now point to a heavy crop of strawberries everywhere South. In North Carolina, the crop is late, as elsewhere, and the yield is likely to be large—too large, in fact, to command remunerative prices when shipments become general. The Savannah News has the following concerning the crop in Georgia and Florida:

"The dealers in strawberries are of the opinion that the crop this year is going to be a good one in spite of the disadvantages with which crops of all kinds have had to contend.

"So far the Florida berries have been the only ones received in this market and they have been coming now for about ten days. They first sold at wholesale at 75 cents a quart, but have lately gone down to 35 cents, Mr. L. Putzel, who handles a large portion of the Florida strawberry crop coming into Savannah, says his advices are to the effect that the crop will be fully up to what it was last year, and perhaps the acreage will be a little larger.

"The strawberries suffered some setback from the last cold snap, and did not come in as early as they did last year, but they were not far enough advanced when the cold came along to receive any material damage. The Savannah crop is not a very large one, amounting to not more than forty or fifty acres, but this will not come on for ten days or two weeks yet, and the outlook is that the fruit will go considerably lower in price than it is at present. In fact there is no reason why it should not go just as low as it has in years past.

"The quality of the berries this year is fully as good if not better than it was last year, and already large quantities of them have been shipped out of Florida. In New York they are now selling wholesale at 40 cents per quart, whereas the first berries sent there sold at from $1.50 to $2.00 a quart. There is no reason to believe that the crop this year will fall short in any respect to what it was last year and the year before.

"The other vegetable crops and fruit crops, Mr. Putzel says, are progressing very favorably and the outlook is a good one. There has, of course, been a great setback with all of the crops on account of this season's cold weather, but the farmers have replanted all the crops that were destroyed, and there is no reason to believe that the crops in all lines this year will not be as good and as plentiful as they have been heretofore."

Court Martial.

The Naval Reserves court martial for the trial of Lieut. Frank Wilkes, of the Charlotte Division, will be held in the U. S. Court room to-day in public. There are nine charges against Mr. Wilkes. He will arrive this morning accompanied by Lieutenant Davis, of the Charlotte Division and Quartermaster Ed McCracken. Mr. Wilkes has been an officer in the Naval Reserves ever since it was organized in this State, was officer on the cruise of 1893 and 1894 and has a number of friends who regret to learn he is in trouble. The court to take evidence in the case to-day are as follows:

Court: Commander F. Winslow, Lieut. Commander Geo. L. Morton, Lieuts. J. W. Harper, T. S. Burbank, W. A. Furlong, C. C. Clark, Jr., J. C. Morrison. Lieut. (J. G.) Tom. C. Daniels, Judge Advocate. Ensign W. R. Morrison, Provost Marshal. Gunners' Mate H. L. Miller, Coxswain W. W. Roberts, and Seamen D. W. Morris, Jno. Robinson, Wilkes Morris, have been detailed as aides to Provost Marshal and Guards of Court.

THE COTTON SITUATION.

Review of the Present and a Glance at the Future—A Letter from Mr. Alfred B. Shepperson—Reduction of Acreage the Chief Factor With Him.

The cotton market in New York is at present in a waiting or hesitating mood with a steady undertone, and while this steadiness might naturally result from several causes, I think that the chief factor in the situation is the attempt on the part of certain well-known and wealthy operators to bring about a material advance in the price of contracts for May delivery.

The visible supply of cotton in the world is about 330,000 bales greater than at the corresponding time of last year, while the stock held by European and American spinners is doubtless 500,000 bales greater than a year ago. The indications are that the commercial crop will reach 9,700,000 bales.

Within the past month spot cotton in New York has advanced 13-16c, per pound, and, therefore, many persons think a reaction from so sharp an advance should be expected.

On the other hand it is to be noted that while about 2,300,000 bales of American cotton have come into sight in excess of the movement to the corresponding time last year, it has been so fully absorbed that, as I have already stated, the visible supply of cotton in the world is only about 330,000 bales greater than it was a year ago.

The cotton manufacturers in Europe and America are doing a much more active business than last season and their weekly consumption is probably 15,000 bales (of 400 pounds net) greater. Notwithstanding this largely increased consumption and the comparatively small excess in visible supply, the price of spot cotton in New York is 1¾c per pound less than it was a year ago.

Trade conditions are so much better than last year here and in Europe that I do not think the larger supply justifies so great a decline in the value of cotton.

On account of the very low prices for cotton which have prevailed throughout the season and the present high price of corn, there are many indications of a considerable reduction in cotton acreage this spring.

That it would be manifestly to the advantage of the cotton growers to plant less cotton and more corn and other food crops there can be no doubt.

The season of 1894 was an unusually good one. Indeed, it may prove to be the best season of which we have any record. It is exceptional to have two very favorable seasons in succession. It not infrequently happens that a very favorable season is followed by an unfavorable season. It would, therefore, be very unreasonable to expect the season of 1895 to give anything like a full yield even if the acreage should remain unchanged. The season of 1893-94 with an acreage of 6 per cent. greater than the previous year gave a crop 18 per cent. less than the crop of 1892-93, and a like result would be in the natural order of things between the almost perfect crop of 1894 and the new crop of 1895.

At the moment, operators are waiting for further developments in respect to the acreage of the new crop and in regard to the effect upon the market of the efforts being made to advance the price of contracts for May delivery.

These are really the pivotal points of the situation.

Those who think it time for reaction from the advance which has occurred since March 1st and who believe the visible and invisible stocks of cotton too great to enable a higher range of prices to rule, even should the crop prove to be a very moderate one, are yet unwilling to go "short" of the market until the speculation in May contracts is ended.

Those who think prices are too low are yet unwilling to buy (in view of the large visible and invisible supply) until more definite information is had in reference to the acreage of the new crop, for they justly think that an advance due to manipulation of May contracts could not be maintained should there be no reduction in acreage.

If trade conditions were undeniably good in Europe and America the present stocks of cotton in the world would not be an obstacle to a material advance in prices, but while the British spinners have consumed more cotton than last year, and are doing a fairly active business, the cotton industry in England is not at present prosperous, and has not been so for several seasons. British manufacturers depend largely upon the export business. India has taken from Great Britain a large share of the trade of China and other Eastern countries, and the long strike in Lancashire (lasting near five months) diverted to the Continent a great deal of business which the British mills have not been able to regain.

The Continent mills having a home market for the greater part of their production are doing an active and profitable business and it is reasonable to expect that their consumption of cotton will continue to increase, but they hold large stocks of cotton and should prices advance they would be in a position to withdraw from the market.

American spinners are doing much better than a year ago, but it cannot be said that there is any "boom" in cotton manufactures. The mills are simply doing a good business compared with the very dull business of last year and they are doing it upon comparatively moderate profits. As they hold full stocks of cotton they would probably hesitate to follow any material advance unless a corresponding advance could be secured for goods, and it is not easy to put up the prices of goods except upon an active demand.

While cotton may be temporarily advanced by the speculation in May contracts it does not seem to me at all probable that any advance of consequence can be maintained until the fact of a very considerable reduction in cotton acreage is actually known and accepted by the trade.

It is true that unfavorable weather for the crop would have a stimulating effect upon prices, but unfavorable conditions prior to May 15th can be fully compensated for by favorable conditions after that time.

An early peace between China and Japan would doubtless cause a further advance in silver and a better demand for goods and yarns and thus strengthen the cotton market, and should our cotton acreage be considerably reduced it is probable that a reasonable advance in May could not only be maintained but that unfavorable weather thereafter for the new crop would carry prices to a permanently higher plane.

AUDIT AND FINANCE.

Called Meeting—Bonds of City Officials Tendered—Action Upon City Clerk and Treasurer Rice's Bond Deferred—Contracts Approved—Communication Sent to the Board of Aldermen.

The Board of Audit and Finance met in called session yesterday afternoon. Present: Messrs. Wm. Calder (chairman) H. C. McQueen, C. W. Yates, Jos. H. Hanby, C. H. Ganzer.

The financial statement of City Clerk and Treasurer Fennell, by direction of the chairman, was read by the Clerk of the Board.

After the disposal of some routine business Chairman Calder stated he had received official notification of the appointment of Mr. F. B. Rice as city clerk and treasurer, and that Mr. Rice's bond would be considered. There were two bonds—one for $30,000, with the Fidelity and Deposit Company of Baltimore security, and the other for $10,000, with M. O'Brien, Emily Taylor and Ann M. Shober sureties. The bond of the Fidelity and Deposit Co. was read by the clerk.

After some discussion it was decided that the Board could not consider the bond until a certified copy of the statements upon which the bond is based had been furnished by the Fidelity and Deposit Company.

Mr. Rice, City Clerk and Treasurer elect, asked if the bond was not similar to one accepted by the Board for Mr. Fennell.

The chairman answered that this was not the question. The whole value of the bond is made upon the statement, and it is declared void if any part of said statement is incorrect.

Mr. Yates moved that consideration of the bond be deferred until a certified copy is furnished by the Fidelity and Deposit Company, under their seal, of the statement in writing relative to the duties, responsibilities, etc., of the employe (the clerk and treasurer) purported to be made by the employer (the city.) The motion prevailed.

On motion by Mr. Hanby, consideration of the $10,000 bond was also deferred.

Bond of Mr. Jno. R. Melton, Chief of Police, in the sum of $1,000, with L. Vollers and E. P. Bailey, sureties, was approved and accepted.

Bond of Jno. Cowan, Clerk of the Board of Audit and Finance, $300, with Jno. W. Atkinson and R. J. Jones sureties, was also accepted.

The contract for lighting the city, with the Wilmington Gas Light Company was, at the suggestion of the chairman laid aside until the budget was received from the Board of Aldermen.

The contract for printing, awarded to S. G. Hall, was approved. Also, contract for feeding and shoeing city mules, awarded to E. J. Jones. Also, contract for furnishing lumber, awarded to Fore & Foster. Also, contract for feeding prisoners awarded to Mrs. Sheehan.

The matter of contracting for cleaning, guttering and grading the streets was discussed. It was stated that the law required this work to be let out by contract to the lowest bidder. Further consideration was deferred until next meeting.

Chairman Calder said it had been intimated to him by the Mayor that the budget was nearly ready. He read the following, which, on motion, was adopted and ordered to be sent to the Board of Aldermen:

To the Honorable the Mayor and Board of Aldermen of the City of Wilmington:

It having been intimated to this Board that the annual budget of appropriations and the accompanying tax ordinance for the ensuing fiscal year, which you are required by law to submit to us for approval, is about ready for presentation, we desire without presuming to encroach upon the prerogatives of your honorable body, to respectfully remind you that the people who are to pay said taxes, while fully represented on this Board, and therefore protected so far as our powers go, have not got the representation upon your Board to which they are by law entitled, the three wards from which the very large majority of taxes are collected having only one-half of their usual delegation and being in an actual minority upon your board. Taxation without due representation being repugnant to American instincts and tradition, we respectfully suggest that the recommendations you may be pleased to make will naturally have more weight if they come to us endorsed by a full delegation of the representatives of all the people lawfully elected.

Mayor Fishblate, who was present, said the Board of Aldermen had agreed to fill the vacancies at a meeting to be held this week.

There being no other business, the chairman said the Board stands adjourned subject to the call of the chair.

Southern Mills Making Money.

In a letter to the Manufacturers' Record Mr. John Inman says: "Cotton mills in all parts of the South are working on full time, and are making money. Indeed, some of the large mills in which I personally own stock, are not only working full time, but are working night and day, using a double force of hands for this purpose, and, although they have advanced the price of their production, they still have more demand than they can supply. I predict that within five years South Carolina will have mills within her limits that will consume one-half of the cotton production of the State." Every word in this statement will apply to North Carolina, except that the day is not far distant when North Carolina mills will consume a great deal more cotton than is now produced in the State.

Again Afloat.

The American schooner A. H. Cross, which was driven ashore on Caswell beach in a gale last September, has been floated. The work was done under the direction of Mr. Louis Skinner. The schooner was imbedded in sand to a depth of eight feet, and the Davis Wrecking Co., of New Bedford, contracted with the owners to float the vessel, but abandoned it after expending several thousand dollars on the venture.

DEMOCRATS IN COUNCIL

MEETING OF STATE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

Encouraging Reports from Different Parts of the State—Rep.-Pops. Caucus in Greensboro—Baptist Female University—Banquet at the Yarborough.

[Special Star Correspondence.]

RALEIGH, N. C., April 10, 1895.

"Judge" Ewart and Hon. Thos. Settle are in the city. Both say there is no political significance attached to their visits here at this time. This is what politicians usually say. Mr. Ewart is an enthusiastic fusionist. He says fusion will be more complete in '96 than it was in '94. Pritchard, Ewart, Settle, Moody and a number of prominent Republicans had a political caucus in Greensboro the other day. Judging from what Mr. Ewart said, fusion would be complete. He said those in favor of a straight Republican ticket would yield to the continuance of fusion. He said: "It is our only hope." Mr. Ewart is confident of receiving the Judgeship.

The Trustees of the Baptist Female University had a meeting last night. They decided to let out the contract for the construction of buildings and to begin work immediately. The Trustees hope to complete the buildings in order to open the University by September next.

Billy McDaniel, whose death sentence was commuted last week by the Governor was brought to the Penitentiary to-day.

The banquet to "the men who did the work" in constructing the Confederate Monument given at the Yarborough last evening was a grand success. Among the speakers were Hon. Octavous Coke Secretary of State, Col. Wm. Cowan, the constructor of the monument; Capt. S. A. Ashe, Spier Whitaker, Maj. Hale of Fayetteville, Col. S. McD Tate, and Major Hayes U. S. A.

The interest in the city Democratic Convention which occurs Friday night is unabated. There are many rumors of combines, which cannot be verified.

The Democratic State Executive Committee met here last night. There was a full meeting, and encouraging reports were brought from different parts of the State. Mr. Walter R. Henry wrote a letter tendering his resignation as a member of the committee. It was accepted and Mr. G. S. Bradshaw, of Raleigh, was elected in his place. Mr. Jos. H. Loughran, of Asheville, was also elected a member, to succeed Mr. Chas. D. Blanton, deceased.

Dr. Blackwell and Maj. Chas. M. Stedman were added to the Central Committee. Some resolutions touching on a silver policy for the next campaign were introduced. The committee did not give out anything for publication. It is said that the registrars, who were established as inferior courts by the Legislature also came up for decision.

REVENUE MARINE SERVICE.

The Washington Star of the 9th says: "The President to-day ordered a board consisting of Surgeons George Purviance, H. W. Austin and H. R. Carter of the marine hospital service to convene at the Treasury Department next Friday morning "to examine and report upon all officers now in the revenue cutter service, who through no vicious habits of their own are now incapacitated by reason of infirmities of age or physical or mental disability, to efficiently perform the duties of their respective offices."

Forty officers have been ordered to examination, as follows: Captains Douglass Ottinger, Francis Martin, C. M. Scammon, J. A. Henriques, David Evans, D. L. Deane, Eric Gabrielson, W. S. Emmons, Thos. W. Lay, L. M. Keene and A. D. Littlefield, First Lieutenants, John Morrissey, George Walden, B. W. Loring, Thos. Mason, Robt. Barstow and J. M. Simms. Second Lieutenants, T. W. Benham, Samuel Howard and J. L. Davis. Third Lieutenant Robert Henderson, Chief Engineers F. H. Pulsifer, Eugene Vallat, A. L. Harrison, J. T. Wayson, W. C. Wheeler, J. M. McDougall, J. M. Case, M. D. L. Dinsmore, Alfred Hoyt, E. F. Hedden, G. M. Robinson, First Assistant Engineers M. G. Marsilliot, J. T. Keleher, Jas. Fitzpatrick, C. F. Dyce, W. H. Warren and Alex. Dennett, Second Assistant Engineers H. G. Henshaw and O. N. Turner.

These officers are all on waiting orders and supposed to be disabled. Whether or not this is so will be established by the proposed examination of their physical condition.

As a result of the proposed examination, the officers found unfit for further active service will be placed permanently on waiting orders list, with half the active duty pay. The vacancies occasioned by these retirements will be filled at once by promotions from the next lower grade. Promotions will be made by seniority, provided, of course, the officers first in line are found qualified for the advancement.

By WILLIAM H. BERNARD.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

THURSDAY MORNING, APRIL 11.

THIS COUNTRY CAN LEAD.

A few days ago we reproduced in an editorial a remarkable prophecy of Wm. H. Seward, made in the United States Senate in 1852, in reference to the conspicuous place the countries on and in the Pacific were destined to take in the world's progress. Much of that prophecy has already been fulfilled, and much more of it will be fulfilled within a decade from this time.

It had more especial reference to the countries upon the American side of the Pacific, and only incidentally referred to the part the countries on the other side, teeming with their millions of people, might play in it. But they have been playing it some, and one of them has been playing a heroic part. When Mr. Seward spoke he knew but little of Japan, that marvellous nation, which after a sleep of many centuries suddenly awoke, rubbed the cobwebs from her eyes and bounded to the front among the nations of the earth, one of the most ancient and exclusive of nations, which had kept her gates hermetically sealed, as it were, for all time before against the nations of the earth, suddenly becoming the most progressive of nations In this respect she stands alone, peculiar and unparalleled by any nation, of any age.

Mr. Seward could not have foreseen the part this wonderful nation was to play in the progress of that side of the Pacific, but in one generation she has done more for the progress of humanity within her sphere of influence than was done in all the ages that preceded since the waters of the flood subsided. When she crossed the dividing waters and with her brave soldiers carried war into the midst of China's 400,000,000 of people and smote the vain-glorious, rotten personification of despotic stupidity on the brow and made it grovel in the dust and bawl for mercy she lifted Chinese manhood and made progress possible. It is said that one of the conditions of peace prescribed by Japan is that China shall open her gates to the machinery of the nations of the earth, which means that China shall become one of the nations of the earth and give her people a chance to become as other people and move along with the procession. Under the progressive inspiration or dictation of such a nation as Japan there are inestimable possibilities in even as moth-eaten a country as China.

But what is this to us? some one might ask. Much; very much, provided we realize it, and put ourselves in a position to take advantage of it. Politically we declared our independence of the "mother country" 119 years ago, but commercially and financially we never have. Financially we have permitted ourselves to be governed by European ideas, and England governs Europe. The brains that shape England's financial policies, dictate the financial policies of Europe, and we march to the tunes that English money-handlers whistle. That's what we have been doing most of the time, that's what we are doing now, and that's why we have discord amongst ourselves on the financial question, why our Treasury becomes embarrassed for gold, and why when it does we have to go upon the market as a borrower to get gold, much of which is dug from our own mines, and goes out to be hoarded abroad and sent back to us at a premium.

Why is this? Because, as we have said, we follow the lead of England in shaping our financial policies, and look to Europe as the only market for our trade, when there is a better and a broader market on the other side of the Pacific, where we could lead in finances as we could lead in trade.

Under the English dictation we have practically ostracized our silver, degraded it to the condition of a mere commercial commodity, and put gold up as the only metal to be honored as a true money metal. When we did that we stupidly took a back seat and turned the lines and whip over to England, and let her do the driving, which she has been doing ever since. She was anxious for our trade and if we bought from her more than we sold her we had to pay the difference in gold—her money—If she invested in enterprises in this country or in American securities, she must have the dividends or interest in gold and the principal when that became due. She ignored our silver, and thus $500,000,000 of our metallic currency became utterly worthless in our dealings with her and other nations which followed her lead in declaring for the supremacy of the yellow metal. The wealthiest nation in the world, she can control the world's volume of gold coin, and make other nations which must have it look to her for it.

Are we always to play second to England and submissively walk in the path she points out? Should we do this when we can look across the Pacific and see 800,000,000 of people, anxious to trade with us, whose money is silver, who would welcome the money that England will not open her trade marts to? If we did that; if we bored a water-way through the narrow barrier that separates the waters of the Pacific and Atlantic, at the isthmus, and sought our trade in these waters, in the countries on both sides, all of which are silver using countries, it would not be long before England would be forced to cease worshipping the golden idol and recognize silver as a matter of self preservation. She will never do it until she is forced to do it. And that is the way to force her. She has led or driven us; we can lead or drive her if we will.

MINOR MENTION.

The Raleigh Visitor informs us that Messrs. Jones and Foster, extensive growers of hops in the State of New York, are now in Raleigh with a view to making experiments in hop-growing in Eastern, Central and Western North Carolina, the intention being to engage largely in the business in that section where the experiments prove the most satisfactory. Experiments which have been made in Rockingham county have given good results, and it is proposed now to carry them on over a wider range. Mr. Jones visited this State a year or so ago on the same mission and was favorably impressed with the surveys and investigations he then made. There is little doubt that hop-culture will succeed in this State, for they may be found growing luxuriantly here and there in almost every part of it, but whether they can be grown profitably for market is the question to be determined. The industry is largely and successfully carried on in New York State, and very largely in California, where they have the advantage of cheap Chinese and Indian labor in the picking season, which is a matter of much importance as bearing on the cost of cultivating and marketing, as the hops have to be picked by hand like cotton. At one time it was a leading industry in Wisconsin and other Western States, but it was taken up as a craze, run into the ground by overproduction until the hops would not pay the cost of picking and marketing, and abandoned finally, we believe, altogether. But Messrs. Jones & Foster doubtless know what they are doing.

The President's Private Secretary contradicts the report given out by a Washington paper that the President was in receipt of many letters and telegrams urging him to call an extra session of Congress to repeal the income tax law. We have no doubt that he would be overwhelmed with appeals of that kind if there was any ground to believe that he would be influenced by them, but Mr. Cleveland has had experience enough with the Congresses not to call them in extra session unless the emergency be of much more importance than the repeal of what there is left of this income tax law, the kernel of which was scooped out by the recent decision of the Supreme Court. There will not be any extra session for this purpose, nor likely for any other, but it is not at all improbable that this decision will result in the repeal of the law, the prime object of which was to raise revenue by taxing wealth which, it was claimed, and justly, had not borne its fair proportion of taxation for the support of the Government. Under this decision the number of income tax-payers may become so small and the revenue from this source so insignificant that there would be really no use in keeping it on the statute books. To escape the tax all the recipient of a $4,000 income has to do is to invest his earnings in real estate or in Government, State or municipal bonds, and let the income tax collector whistle.

***

Telegraphic announcement was made yesterday that the Edgar Thompson foundry and machine works at Mobile, Ala., had been awarded the contract for castings for a marine railway at Halifax, Nova Scotia, having underbid other competing establishments in the United States and in England. That scores one more victory for the Alabama iron men, who have on several previous occasions secured important contracts, bidding against the world. We don't know what the extent of this contract is, but the presumption is that it amounts to something when both American and English establishments competed for it, but whether it be large or small, the fact that a Mobile firm won the prize, again draws attention to the South as an iron-manufacturing section and is a splendid advertisement for Alabama iron works. It draws attention to another fact, and that is the possibilities of the iron-manufacturing industry in our Southern seacoast cities where they have the advantage of cheap raw material from our own mines and cheap all-water transportation for their manufactures. This latter fact had in all probability something to do with the bid made by these Mobile works which secured them the contract over other competitors at home and abroad. With untaxed imported ores, which it is sometimes necessary to work with our native ores, some of our Southern seacoast cities might become great iron and steel manufacturing centers.

CURRENT COMMENT.

—— Governor McKinley's attitude on the financial question is that of a man who regards one thing at a time as sufficient, especially when that one thing is the tariff.—Washington Star, Dem.

—— Germany's espousal of the French side of the Niger controversy with England accounts readily for the calmly confident tone of Minister Hanotaux in discussing England's recent outburst of belligerency. It is likely to have a similar effect upon Mr. Bull. He will roar much more gently over the provocation than he did last week.—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser, Dem.

—— St. Petersburg cablegrams say that the "strong military tone" of the Kaiser's recent speeches has produced an unfavorable impression in Russia. But the Kaiser's speeches are no stronger than they have always been, and the world at large is beginning to understand that a military tone after dinner may not mean much except wine after all.—New York World, Dem.

—— How did the American Colonies succeed in gaining their independence? By the assistance of France. How did the United States afterwards acquire possession of Louisiana, Florida, and a large part of Mexico? THAT IRON CROWN.

It Was Used In Crowning Thirty-four Monarchs—Conflicting Stories of Its Origin and Career—Other Treasures Guarded In the Church at Monza.

"Let no other hand dare to touch it," said Napoleon as he placed the iron crown upon his brow.

It seems to have been a weakness of the great Napoleon to crown himself, for he also performed the act in the Cathedral of Notre Dame at Paris. In the one instance he rudely repulsed a bishop, and in the other a pope, who were about to place a crown upon his head.

The mystery of the origin of the iron crown, the interesting history connected with it, the noble—and ignoble—heads it has adorned, all make it an object of importance.

Now, after crowning 34 monarchs, it rests on a velvet cushion in a glass case in the cathedral at Monza, locked and sealed and guarded. Only by the payment of $1 can the curious obtain even a glimpse of it. It is composed of six quadrangular pieces of gold united by hinges and is adorned with 22 gems of various colors and 24 enameled jewels. Lining the inner part is the much disputed strip of iron. The popular tradition that this strip is made out of a nail from the true cross is gradually becoming disbelieved, although the clergy still maintain the right of the strip to be considered holy.

The story is that Helena, the mother of Constantine, found the nails with which Christ was crucified, and of one of them made a horseshoe and of the other a diadem. The diadem, all of gold, but lined in the interior with a thin strip of iron, was given by Pope Gregory the Great to Theodolinda, and by her to the Church of San Giovanni Battista, which she had founded at Monza. There is another crown in the church given by Theodolinda and called for her, but as it is of gold and makes no claim to being holy, being simply a votive offering, no particular interest attaches to it.

Some writers say that the nail was not placed in the iron crown, but in the helm of Constantine; that the lining strip of iron is simply a band to hold the inflexible crown in shape. It is only since 1717 that the crown has been considered a sacred relic, and discussions and suppositions have been advanced in regard to it. It is not mentioned in the reign of Theodolinda, nor until some centuries afterward. Those who oppose the idea that the lining strip of iron is the holy nail say that if it was, the Milanese would have resented with the sword the calling of it a crown of straw, as did Rafael Toscana in his verses:

With straw in Monza and with glittering gold in Rome.

There were other iron crowns in the history of the past, among them one made for Henry VII, in the form of a garland of laurels, ornamented with rich and precious stones, but all of these have been lost or stolen, so that the one at Monza alone remains.

Between the years of 1859 and 1866 the iron crown was absent from the little velvet cushion in Monza. It was carried off by the Austrians, but was returned in 1866 to the king of Italy. The portraits of all the kings who have worn this crown are also preserved in the cathedral at Monza. The last three were Charles V, at Bologna in 1530; Napoleon, May 26, 1805, in the famous pinnacled cathedral at Milan, and in the same place Ferdinand I, Sept. 6, 1838.

There are other treasures guarded in the church at Monza—chalices and holy vases, gems and crowns of silver and gold. These are venerated and worshiped, and many of them have been there since the time of Theodolinda but others have been placed there at different times by the Lombardian sovereigns. There was formerly a crown in the church that had been given as a votive offering by Agilulfo, the husband of Theodolinda. It contained the inscription, "Agilulfo, by the grace of God, glorious man and king of Italy, offering to San Giovanni in the church of Monza." The inscription was noteworthy because in it was used for the first time the words "gratia Dei" (by the grace of God), which have since been adopted by all the sovereigns. This crown was melted and sold in 1804, the year before Napoleon was crowned with the iron crown.

Napoleon founded an order of knighthood and called it the Order of Iron Crown.

Monza, the sleepy old town containing the cathedral that guards this historic crown, lies in the shadow of the Alps. Looking toward them one sees the snow glistening on their peaks. Turning in the opposite direction the pinnacles of Milan's cathedral can be seen white and shining in the sunlight, while above the sky is blue, and at one's feet flows the peaceful Lambro. It is a scene of quiet beauty and suggests no thoughts of stormy times and great revolutions, and yet such have taken place in and about Monza. In late years many momentous questions of state have been settled here.—Chicago Record.

If the Rope Broke.

A visitor to Niagara once got a reply which was by no means the answer he expected. He was watching the car start which is raised or lowered on the inclined plane by steam power, but, not liking the look of the track, did not go down himself. After the car had started he turned to the man in charge and said, "Suppose, sir, that the rope should break?" The visitor was thinking of possible danger; the man only thought of business, and replied, "Oh, they all paid before they went," which was not quite so soothing an answer as the querist might naturally have expected.—Cornhill Magazine.

Woman Was Made From an Elm Stick.

In the Scandinavian myth of the origin of woman, Odin, Vill and Ve, the three sons of Bor, were walking along the seabeach, when they found two sticks of wood, one of ash and one of elm. Odin and his brothers were gods, of course, but the sight of the stick caused them to wish that they could carve other gods from the inanimate wood. They forthwith set about the task, with the result that they made a living man out of the ash stick, and a female, being in godlike form, equally as lively as the man, out of the elm billet. —St. Louis Republic.

A LEAP AND A RESCUE.

How a Tramp Saved a Railroad Train and What Came of It.

Extra Wallace, west bound, reached Emerson at 10 p. m. June 16, 1878. In switching out a car the forward brakeman was so badly injured that we left him for surgical treatment. I was braking behind. From Emerson to Chauncey, 12 miles, is up grade, and as Conductor Wallace had gone over to the engine I was left alone on the rear. The moon shone brightly, and I noticed a number of tramps riding out on top. We had almost reached the summit and the night express was only 15 minutes behind us when suddenly the speed slackened. The caboose, two cars of telegraph poles and three of cinders had broken off. I was standing on the load of poles and started for a brake when one of the poles became loosened from its position and rolled on my foot. I struggled desperately to free myself, for the cars had started backward.

I thought of the express with her cargo of precious lives and struggled again. I seemed to hear the crash, the shrieks and groans of the dying, the curses and prayers. Minutes were years, and I grew old in the awful suspense. Then I heard a whistle and saw our front end following down the hill. On the leading car the conductor was swinging a back up signal, while the whistle blew a wild warning for No. 7. Faster and faster spun the wheels, and slowly, but surely, was the runaway overtaken.

I held my breath.

Only 20 feet.

A form shot out over the chasm, swung in clear relief for an instant against the sky and then dropped safely on board the car of cinders. At the same moment the conductor gave a stop signal, and the gap widened.

Well timed it was, for given a second sooner and the leap would have been impossible; later, and a collision unavoidable.

In a short time every brake was set, and as we slowed down I shrieked frantically: "Flag No. 7! Take a red light and flag the express!"

He understood and obeyed without a word. Fortunately or providentially, they were late, and he got back far enough to stop them. I was unconscious when at last released. My foot was badly crushed, and it was many weeks before I was again able to report for duty. As for our hero, he proved to be one of the tramps I had noticed and had volunteered for his dangerous task. When the superintendent, who was on No. 7, learned the circumstances, he offered him a position as brakeman, promising him advancement as he proved his ability. That was the beginning. Today he is a prominent general manager, and his name is a recognized power in the railroad world.—Chicago Record.

PENGUINS FEEDING.

The Transformation That Takes Place When They Enter the Water.

The appearance of the keeper, with his pail of live gudgeon, is the signal for sudden and intense excitement in the cages. The penguins wave their little flippers and waddle to the door, whence they peer eagerly down the wooden steps leading to the pool. The cormorant croaks and sways from side to side, and the darters poise their snaky heads and spread their batlike wings. At the water's edge the penguins do not launch themselves upon the surface like other waterfowl, but instantly plunge beneath.

Once below water an astonishing change takes place. The slow, ungainly bird is transferred into a swift and brilliant creature, beaded with globules of quicksilver, where the air clings to the close feathers, and flying through the clear and waveless depths with arrowy speed and powers of turning far greater than in any known form of aerial flight. The rapid and steady strokes of the wings are exactly similar to those of the air birds, while its feet float straight out level with the body, unused for propulsion, or even as rudders, and as little needed in its progress as those of a wild duck when on the wing.

The twists and turns necessary to follow the active little fish are made wholly by the strokes of one wing and the cessation of movement in the other, and the fish are chased, caught and swallowed without the slightest relaxation of speed in a submarine flight which is quite as rapid as that of most birds which take their prey in midair. In less than two minutes some 30 gudgeon are caught and swallowed below water, the only appearance of the birds on the surface being made by one or two bounds from the depths, when the head and shoulders leap above the surface for a second and then disappear.

Any attempt to remain on the surface leads to ludicrous splashing and confusion, for the submarine bird cannot float. It can only fly below the surface. Immediately the meal is finished both penguins scramble out of the water and shuffle, with round backs and drooping wings, back to their cage to dry and digest.—Spectator.

Frozen Milk.

The French industry of icing milk is an original departure in tinned commodities. The milk is frozen and placed in block form in tins and on the part of the purchaser requires to be melted previous to use. Being hermetically sealed, the commodity thus iced preserves its form until it is required, when a minute's exposure to the sun's rays or to the heat of the fire is all that is necessary to reduce it to a liquid condition.—Baltimore Sun.

To Remove Ink Stains.

Ink stains on carpets or woolen goods can be removed while they are fresh by taking common baking soda or saleratus, rubbing it well into the spots and then rinsing with warm water. The same process will remove dried ink spots from cotton goods if the spot has not been wet with water before the saleratus is applied.—Jewelers' Circular.

Why She Did.

Husband—For heaven's sake, what makes you talk so much?

Wife (pleasantly)—You do, love. I have to keep talking so you will not have so many opportunities to say rude things.—Detroit Free Press.

You Don't Have to Swear Off

Says the St. Louis Journal of Agriculture in an editorial about No-To-Bac, the famous tobacco habit cure. "We know of many cases cured by No-To-Bac, one, a prominent St. Louis architect, smoked and chewed for twenty years; two boxes cured him so that even the smell of tobacco makes him sick." No-To-Bac sold and guaranteed by R. R. BELLAMY & CO. No cure no pay. Book free. Sterling Remedy Co., New York or Chicago.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev J Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich, we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist church at Rives Junction she was brought down with Pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at R R BELLAMY'S drug store. Regular size 50c and $1.00.

You Will never need another dose of Dyspepsia Medicine after a meal, if your food is cooked with Cottolene, the new vegetable shortening, instead of lard. Cottolene aids the digestive powers—lard destroys them, which will you choose? The genuine Cottolene is identified by this trade mark—steer's head in cotton-plant wreath—on every pail.

GERMAN ARMY MARRIAGE.

Officers May Not Wed Without the Consent of Their Superiors.

No German officer can marry without the consent of his colonel, according to Poultney Bigelow in "The Borderland of Czar and Kaiser," and this consent can be obtained only after a careful inquiry into all the circumstances surrounding the proposed alliance. First, is the young lady suitable for association with the wives of the other officers? Second, will the bridegroom be able to live respectably and bring up his family? Third, are his means, or those of his wife, invested in proper securities, so that he is not liable to be expelled by reason of bankruptcy? The extraordinary social advantages enjoyed by the German officer and the pecuniary responsibility growing naturally from such advantages make his small pay, which amounts only to about $1 a day in case of a first lieutenant, appear even smaller than it is.

An American lady who had been spending a winter in Dresden told Mr. Bigelow that all the bachelors of the garrison were furnished with a list of marriageable women, each name ornamented with the property she might be expected to inherit. This no doubt was a mistake on her part, but it is a very common one. German officers stationed in desirable towns are very apt to get into debt and have to choose between leaving the army in disgrace or marrying a rich girl.

Mr. Bigelow adds: "From my own experience in Germany the officers would appear to have married for love and to be happy in consequence," and yet "the number of those who get into debt and fail to secure a rich wife is considerable, although it makes no particular ripple in the surface. Such men simply disappear and turn up sooner or later in America, where they take employment as coachmen, waiters, teachers or instructors in riding schools. The change of life is very violent and is adopted only as preferable to suicide."

Upon my lady's bre—t
Its petals large, its calyx deep,
Its stem with green leaves dressed.

'Tis rich with beauty, in color rare—
Oh, what a combination!—
The same as she whose smile on me
I see in adoration.

But the rose, the rose, the rich red rose
Which glows on her gown of gray
Is very scarce this time of year—
It cost my last week's pay.

A MAN'S BEST IDEAS.

An Old Student Says They Come Into the Mind Unexpectedly.

Professor von Helmholtz, the great German scientist of imperishable fame, not long before his death gave an interesting review of his life work on the occasion of the celebration of his seventieth birthday, in which, among other things, he reveals some instructive features of his habits of study and the process by which he won his ideas as well as the time and manner in which it was his wont to commit the latter to paper: "As it has frequently been my lot to have to await in uncertainty the arrival of appropriate thoughts and conceptions, which then would break suddenly and unheralded upon me, I have just gained some experience in the management of these capricious ideas. This may be of utility to other students of like physiological temperament.

"The best ideas have often stolen silently into the current of my thoughts while the latter were not employed in seeking them. I know not by what process of unconscious cerebration they were evolved. I only knew that they were there. Nor could I at first fully estimate the importance of such unexpected but welcome visitors.

"These ideas never introduced themselves when my brain was tired and almost never at my writing table. I had first to turn my problem in all directions and envisage it from every side, and thereafter to consign it to my involuntary thoughts without even prematurely attempting to solve it within myself or committing my reflections to writing. Long and patient preliminary investigation was the unconditional prerequisite to success.

"No matter how urgent the necessity for action, I must always give my brain its time to relax from fatigue or strain and await the recurrence of a feeling of both physical and mental well being and contentment before writing for publication. My most valuable ideas have presented themselves in the morning on my awakening from a refreshing sleep, but the favorite period for them has been while I was seeking relaxation by roaming slowly over picturesque hills or through wooded parks in the bright sunlight. The slightest indulgence in alcoholic beverages sufficed to banish them from my grasp."—Baltimore Sun

HER MIRROR.

A Japanese Story of Its Influence on a Motherless Girl.

At Y. M. C. A. hall Yeataso Okano, a Japanese, told the following story to a large audience:

"Once upon a time there lived in a little hamlet in Japan a young couple. They had one child—a beautiful little girl whom both loved very dearly. It came to pass while the child was still a baby girl that the father was obliged to take a long journey to the far distant city. It was too far for him to take his wife and child, so he left them at home and traveled alone.

"In that great city he saw many new things which, having lived in the peaceful little hamlet up among the mountains all his life, he had never seen before. He desired to take home to his wife some of these new things which seemed to him so wonderful. And the most wonderful gift he could take, it seemed to him, was a mirror. He wished to take home to his wife the pleasure and surprise he had experienced when he first looked into a mirror. So he took one home to his wife.

"When he arrived home he gave the present to his wife, and for the first time she looked into a mirror. 'What do you see?' her husband asked. She replied: 'I declare! I see a very pretty woman. She wears her hair just as I do mine, and she smiles and moves her lips as if she were talking to me.' Her husband told her that the mirror was a present for her, and he hoped she would use it every day. But the wife thought it far too beautiful and rare and costly a gift to use every day, so she put it carefully away and never spoke about it to the little daughter, who grew more beautiful and more like her mother every day.

"By and by a great misfortune fell upon that little household. The wife and mother fell sick, and it was soon evident that she must die. As she lay upon her deathbed she called her little daughter to her and told her that she was going to lose her mother forever. She could point to no future life after death in which they should be reunited, but in the love and simplicity of her heart she did the best she could. She told her little daughter about the wonderful mirror. 'After I am dead,' she said, 'take down that box and look into the mirror that it contains. There you will see my face. And I want you to look into the mirror every day, that you may never forget your mother, and that you may grow like me more and more every day.'

"So the mother died. The little girl did as she had been told, and in the wonderful mirror she thought she saw her mother's face, young and beautiful—not as she had seen her, pale and ill as she lay dying, but fair and fresh as she had looked before the fatal illness. And the little girl looked into the mirror every day and thought of her mother and her many lovely ways, and so it came about that she grew to be more and more like her mother as the years went by."—Rochester Post-Express.

A Daring Trick.

"One of the most daring tricks I ever came across," said H. B. Farrell, a New York attorney, "was in the case of a man who deliberately impersonated a lawyer's clerk and persuaded a very sick man to sign a will without reading it, and which disposed of his property in direct opposition to his wishes. It was a case of a family dispute, and the old gentleman, who was quite wealthy, had decided to disinherit his eldest son and leave the property to a younger one. Being warned by his doctor that he had only a day or two more to live, he sent instructions to his attorney to draft his will and send it down promptly for signature.

"While the lawyer was preparing the document a representative of the eldest son arrived with a paper, which he said was the will prepared by the sick man's attorney. The will was signed without hesitation and duly witnessed, and when two hours later the lawyer's clerk arrived with the genuine will he was not allowed to enter the house, being warned off the premises by the housekeeper. On his return to the office his employer saw at once that a fraud had been committed, and he hastened to the house to have it set right. In the meantime, however, the sick man had become unconscious, and he died without being able to execute a will after his own wishes. The bogus will was upset, but the fraud could never be sufficiently proved to convict the man suspected of concocting it, and he inherited quite a large sum of the money as next of kin."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

HYPNOTIC SINGING.

The Most Disputed Incident of "Trilby" Supported by Fact.

Among the many items apropos of Du Maurier's masterpiece not the least interesting is the closeness with which he stuck to the facts. One's first impression upon reading how Svengali taught Trilby to sing—how he hypnotized her and commanded her to imitate the sounds he made on his flexible flageolet—was no doubt that this at least was a flight of poetic license. It seems, however, to be well within the possibilities.

A case which in all essentials covers it was reported as long ago as 1850 by James Braid, the first of the successors of Mesmer to approach the hypnotic sleep from the side of science rather than of charlatanism. After speaking of the heightened sense of hearing under mesmerism and of the increase of muscular precision, they make, he says, "feats of phonic imitation" possible which are truly astonishing.

"Many patients will thus repeat accurately what is spoken in any language, and they may be also able to sing correctly and simultaneously both words and music of songs in any language which they had never heard before—i. e., they catch the words as well as music so instantaneously as to accompany the other singer as if both had been previously equally familiar with both words and music.

"In this manner a patient of mine who, when awake, knew not the grammar of even her own language, and who had very little knowledge of music, was enabled to follow Mlle. Jenny Lind correctly in songs in different languages, giving both words and music so correctly and so simultaneously with Jenny Lind that two parties in the room could not for some time imagine that there were two voices, so perfectly did they accord, both in musical tone and vocal pronunciation of Swiss, German and Italian songs. She was equally successful in accompanying Mlle. Lind in one of her extemporaneous effusions, which was long and extremely difficult, an elaborate chromatic exercise, which the celebrated cantatrice tried by way of taxing the powers of the somnambulist to the utmost. When awake, the girl durst not even attempt to do anything of the sort, and, after all, wonderful as it was, it was only phonic imitation, for she did not understand the meaning of a single word of the foreign language which she uttered so correctly."

This is exactly Trilby's case, only more so, except that there is nothing to indicate in the report that "the patient" remembered Jenny Lind's songs and could reproduce them, but the formation of a trance state memory is a sufficiently frequent phenomenon. The quotation is from Braid's "Observations on Trance," page 43.—New York Post.

Grecian Enterprise.

It is the way of travelers to complain of the food they are obliged to eat in foreign countries. Whether it is an American in Europe or a European in America, the result is much the same. We like the things to which we are accustomed. When Edmond About was in Greece, he carried matters so far as to object to eating green peaches. He was in the bazaar at Athens.

"Wouldn't it be possible to get some ripe peaches?" he asked the vender.

"I think not," answered the Athenian.

"But pray tell me why?"

"We have no good roads. If the farmers should try to bring ripe fruit to market on muleback, it would arrive in the shape of marmalade."

"But at Corfu also the peaches were green, and there they have good roads and bring the fruit to town in wagons."

"Ah, well," said the man, "there is another reason. The farmers have no money, and they have creditors. They can't wait for fruit to get ripe."

There, says About, you have a fair example of the state of Grecian agriculture.

A French gardener, being at Smyrna, noticed that the Greeks had almost no vegetables in their gardens—tomatoes everywhere and scarcely anything else.

"Why don't you raise other things?" he asked. "Asparagus, now. Your soil is just right. You would make a fine thing of it. I will furnish you with seeds."

"How soon should we get crops?"

"In four years at the longest."

"Four years! Are you crazy? Do you suppose we would spend money to get something back in four years? We should be bankrupt 20 times over."—Youth's Companion.

Trollope and Whist.

Trollope was attracted, in the first instance, by the genial society, but continued to resort there from pure love of the game itself, and, though, as he tells us, he often felt inclined "to swear off," like Rip Van Winkle, the habit grew too strong for him, and, after all, he is disposed to agree with Talleyrand that, when one has turned 60, life without cards is but a triste vieillesse.

Trollope, as might be supposed, was by no means an ideal whist player. His eager and almost boisterous temperament was hardly suited to a game that requires the utmost self possession and coolness from its votaries. But his play was steady and consistent. He utilized his strong suit and was sound on the subject of trumps, and au reste he was as thorough paced a partner and as implacable an opponent as the great Sarah Battle herself.—Blackwood's Magazine.

An Appreciative Welshman.

London Truth has the following: "The following tasty inscription is from a family mausoleum erected by a Welsh landowner and magistrate in Merionethshire. To expend turf winnings on erecting a tomb looks, at first sight, eccentric, but possibly the builder was moved by the reflection that betting has brought many to their graves:

As to my latter end I go
To seek my jubilee
I bless the good horse Bendigo,
That built this tomb for me.

That Troublesome Meringue.

The secret of making the meringue for lemon pies so that it stands tall and thick is in the baking. Whip the whites of the eggs to a froth that will not fall out of the bowl when turned upside down. Put in about a tablespoonful of granulated sugar for each white, stir very little, spread it on the pies when they are just done and still baking hot without taking them out of the oven and let them bake with the oven open. If made hot enough to brown, the meringue will surely fall and become worse than nothing. Five to ten minutes is enough to bake the meringue dry and straw colored. Sift granulated sugar on the top of the meringue as soon as spread on the pie before baking.—Philadelphia Times.

Liable to Be Misunderstood.

Liable to misunderstanding are such interesting adornments of shop windows as, "Superior butter, 1 shilling per pound. Nobody can touch it"—probably not—or the tempting notice of the dealer in cheap shirts, "They won't last long at this price!" Worse still was the admonition which appeared in the window of a cheap restaurant, "Dine here, and you will never dine anywhere else." The viands of this restaurateur must have been almost as deadly and unerring in their effect as the whisky known in the western states as "forty rod," because that was the distance beyond which no drinker could walk after its imbibition.—Cornhill Magazine.

FREAKS OF NATURE.

Some Curious Things That Amuse and Astonish Men of Science.

Nature's freaks of fancy afford a strange study. People are constantly sending to the National museum supposed fossil animals and other oddities which are in reality mere accidental forms carved by water. A pebble in a stream gathers about itself grains of sand until an odd shaped lump is made. A favorite shape for such lumps is that of a turtle with four legs, a head and tail, even the lines of the shell being sometimes distinct. Similar concretions of carbonate of iron and clay assume the appearance of petrified peanuts. Break one, and you will always find inside a small spiral winkle shell, which has served as the nucleus. A queer counterfeit of this kind, forwarded to Washington not long ago, was an alleged fossil foot of a child, with a little stocking on, the latter showing signs of wear on the ball of the foot and on the heel. It was only a concretion, as was likewise what appeared to be a petrified oyster on the shell.

One eminent scientist has been amusing himself of late by making imitation spider webs out of quarts fibers. It is well known that copper wire can be drawn to a fineness much less than the thickness of a hair—in fact, to the diameter of the one-thousandth part of an inch. But glass may be spun finer than copper, while even the finest spun glass is not so fine as silk fiber. The latter, however, is coarse compared with the threads that can be obtained by melting quartz under a blowpipe and pulling it out. Such threads may be reduced to a thinness of one-millionth of an inch. Drawn to such tenuity, they are invisible under a microscope of the highest power. Yet they are stronger in proportion to their thickness than the best quality of bar steel. Enough thread like this could be made from a single cubic inch of quartz to go around the world 658 times. A grain of sand barely large enough to be visible to the naked eye would yield 1,000 miles of thread.

Obviously no practical use can be made of threads so extremely fine. Comparatively coarse ones were woven into cobwebs by the scientist aforesaid. They would not catch flies because they were too slippery, having no gluten on them, like real cobwebs. This difficulty was got over by moistening a straw in castor oil and gently stroking the threads with it; then the webs captured flies fairly well. But a cobweb is incomplete without a spider, so it occurred to the experimenter to attract an arachnid to his web by the buzzing of a fly. It was difficult to make a fly buzz to order, but a satisfactory imitation was produced by permitting a tuning fork to vibrate against the quartz fibers. This fetched the spider right away. The scientist also amused himself with blowing bubbles of quartz, which looked exactly like the most beautiful soap bubbles.—Washington Star.

Sponge Fishing.

The Greeks are considered the principal sponge fishers, and it takes much experience, skill and hardihood to qualify a man for a first class place among sponge divers. Many of the most valuable specimens are found at a depth varying from 10 to 35 fathoms. To aid in the descent, the divers make use of a triangular stone, with a hole in one corner, through which a rope is spliced. On reaching the deep sea gardens, where the rock ledges are clothed with marine growths, the diver, retaining a hold on his rope, dexterously breaks away the holdfast of the sponges and places them under his arm until a sufficient load has been gleaned, when a pull on the rope signals his companions above that he is ready to ascend, and he is then hauled to the surface, bearing his ocean treasures.—Exchange.

Manuscript of "The School For Scandal."

No printed version of "The School For Scandal" was prepared for publication by Sheridan. He always alleged that he could not supply one with which he was perfectly satisfied. Yet he made the attempt, and Mr. Fraser Rae has discovered the copy containing his final corrections of passages in many scenes, which Moore must have overlooked, the documents at his disposal having recently been put into Mr. Fraser Rae's hands by Sheridan's descendants for the purpose of writing a complete biography of the great dramatist and orator. The manuscript is imperfect, yet enough is extant to show how effectually Sheridan could add a fresh charm to his polished phrases.—London Athenæum.

Rulers of Horses and Men.

It is instructive to compare the visage of the ruler of horses with that of the ruler of men. The horseman's face shows command in the mouth; the drill sergeant's in the mouth and the eye. The last is undoubtedly the most effective instrument in exacting obedience from our own species. Here we get a hint of the cause of that want of dignity, that element of coarseness, which is discernable in the countenances of some men and women who have much to do with horses. The higher and nobler method of expressing authority is outweighed by the lower and more animal one.—Blackwood's Magazine.

Are Men Getting More Vain?

A local philosopher, who makes a practice of observing other people's manners and commenting upon their habits, states that nearly every man now carries a pocket mirror. According to him, this habit has grown immensely of late, and nearly every man can be observed at frequent intervals pulling a glass out of his pocket and looking at the set of his necktie or the appearance of his whiskers.—Philadelphia Call.

Steamships Steered by a Finger.

Marvelous progress has been made in marine architecture and equipment within the past few years. There was a time when the wheelhouse of a big ocean steamer contained eight stalwart men, who, in rough weather, would find it almost a herculean task to manage the wheel. Nowadays the light touch of an infant's hand upon the wheel is of sufficient power to turn a vessel completely around. Huge boats are now steered by a steam apparatus, which is as quick and effective as the touch upon the ordinary electric button.—Philadelphia Record.

The titles of Jewish rabbinical writings are often fanciful. One commentary is called "The Heart of Aaron," the introduction to the Talmud is the "Bones of Joseph," and other treatises are termed "Garden of Nuts" and "Golden Apples."

WILMINGTON, N. C.

THURSDAY MORNING, APRIL 11.

SPOTS AND FUTURES.

New York Sun's Review of the Cotton Market.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, April 10.—The Sun says: Cotton rose ten to twelve points, and closed firm, with sales of 211,900 bales. Liverpool was 1-32d higher on the spot, with sales of 25,000 bales; futures advanced one point, but lost half of this later on, and closed quiet and steady. Silver declined ⅛d in London. The North Carolina bulletin for the week says that the Eastern and Central sections are likely to show considerable decrease in the acreage. The semi-weekly receipts, as reported for the interior towns by New Orleans, was 23,000 bales, against 11,000 in 1893; shipments 33,000 bales, against 20,000 in 1892. The Manchester cables were bullish. Mississippi weekly report says the weather has been favorable for farm work during the past week, except where there was too much moisture. New Orleans dispatches said bears there were covering freely. In Manchester, yarns were strong and cloths in moderate demand. The Southern spot markets were generally steady to firm, and quiet. New Orleans, St. Louis Savannah, Baltimore and Augusta advanced 1-16c and Charleston ⅛c. New Orleans sold 4,500 bales. Spot cotton here was quiet at an advance of ⅛c, with sales of 66 bales for spinning. Middling uplands 6⅛c. Augusta received to day 290 bales against 64 this day last week and 295 last year. Memphis 208 bales, against 84 last week and 95 last year and Houston 1,503 against 2 188 last week and 995 last year. In New Orleans futures advanced six to seven points. Receipts there to morrow estimated at 500 to 1,000 against 4,794 last week and 1,553 last year. The port receipts to-day were 8,081 against 19,967 this day last week and 8 942 last year; thus far this week they are 62,940 against 81,547 thus far last week. The exports were 5,594 to Great Britain and 5,965 to the Continent.

The New York warehouse stock is now 198,000 bales, against 237,000, 253,000, 888 000, 133,000 and 191,000 bales in the previous five years Fall River reports a large demand for print cloths at 1-16c. advance. President Spencer, of the Southern Railway Company, says that the fertilizer business of the South is not more than 60 or 65 per cent. of that of a nominal year, and adds: "The South is turning its attention more and more to manufacturing and agricultural products other than cotton. The result is more independence for the Southern farmers."

To-day's features: It was practically a repetition of yesterday's features, only a little more so—for instance Liverpool sold 18,000 bales on the spot yesterday, but to-day 25,000. Prices advanced about five points yesterday, but to-day 10 to 12 points. The Southern markets were higher, the port receipts were small, falling even below those of the corresponding day last year for the first time this season and Manchester advices were enough to bring smiles to the faces of the bulls. English spinners have perhaps in some cases been waiting a little too long to stock up. They seem to have been banking a little too much on a 10,000,000 bale crop, and now they find very little pressure to sell and an aggressive bull party standing by cotton very resolutely on the theory that the next crop is going to be very much smaller than the present one. The South of Europe bought here early in the session, but later on there was more or less realizing, as usual, and yet it had very little effect upon prices. Many of the local shorts covered and some local operators went long. The undertone of the market is considered firm.

MANCHESTER, April 10.—The Guardian, in its commercial article, says: The tone of the cotton market has been strong and the feeling, in general, more hopeful, but while there has been occasional moderate business, buyers have been reluctant to respond to the upward movement of cotton and the demands of the manufacturers. There has been rather more inquiry from India, but it is merely tentative. The improved limits which some classes of goods have received might have been acceptable a week ago, but they are not entertained now. There is some inquiry for shirtings from Calcutta, but little of it is workable. There are also inquiries from Western India and Madras for staples and light goods, but mostly at low figures. Some of the offers have been executed. Little has been done for China and Japan. There are some business in the Eastern markets, but inquirers are not eager to buy at the current rates. Some goods actually required have been taken by the nearer markets and some have gone through the South American outlets when they could be placed at reasonable figures. Yarns are strong and a fraction higher.

GAINING GROUND.

The Insurrection in Cuba Spreading Throughout the Island.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, April 10.—The Ward Line steamer Senaca arrived this morning from Mexican ports and Havana. It was learned that while nothing official could be heard of the progress of the Cuban insurrection, the uprising was general throughout the island and was gaining ground daily. Everything is at high tension among the people and the insurgents have more sympathisers than the authorities are willing to admit.

NAVAL STORES MARKETS.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, April 10.—Spirits turpentine dull and easy at 31½@31¾c. Rosin quiet and steady; strained common to good $1 52½@1 57½.

CHARLESTON, April 10—Spirits turpentine nominal at 28c; receipts 11 casks. Rosin—good strained $1 10@1 15; receipts 81 barrels.

CUBA'S INSURRECTION.

GOV. GENERAL CAMPOS' ARRIVAL EXPECTED.

Will Push Active Operations Against the Insurgents—Troops Stationed in All the Towns—A Syndicate Said to be Formed in the United States to Furnish Money to Revolutionists.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

HAVANA, VIA KEY WEST, April 10.—Brig. Gen. Jose Jimerres Moreno, chief of the Governor General's staff, sailed to-day on the Villaverde to receive Martinez Campos, who is expected to arrive on the 15th. Campos will land at Guantanimo or Santiago, and by Royal decree becomes Governor General the moment he sets foot on land, avoiding the delay attendant upon observing the customary formal taking the oath of office here. Governor General Salleja will retire from office upon notice of the landing of Campos, and will sail home on the 20th inst.

General Campos is expected to push active operations against the insurgents in the Province of Santiago De Cuba, which is the only section where insurgents are known to be in any number. Latest advices place the number at 3,000, divided into bands of 50 to 200 each. General Bartolo Maso is in command.

The insurgents announce that a syndicate has been formed in the United States to furnish money for the revolution, reimbursements guaranteed from customs receipts when independence is secured. Wealthy and influential Cubans here give no aid to the insurgents, and declare the uprising a mistake. All three parties here pledge support to the Government. The general belief is that the insurgents will shortly die out.

General La Chambre, in command of the Government forces in the Province of Santiago, reports meeting bands in the mountainous sections but no massing of insurgents and risings in other Provinces. All are under martial law. Troops are stationed at all towns.

Monday a band of forty-eight mounted insurgents invaded Puerto Principe Province and were attacked by Government forces and defeated. One leader, Panchin Varona, was killed, another mortally wounded and taken prisoner, and a woman and child in a house killed by stray balls.

Three of the party who landed near Baracoa with Maceo after killing the captain of the schooner Aonora, were captured Monday. The others fled to the mountains.

The members of the party arrested Sunday in a supposed attempt on Jaruco Barracks was liberated to-day, except Pedro Lopez, Gil and Francisco Paz. The others arrested at Puerto Principe April 5th, were also released, including Marquis Santa Lucia.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

May Wheat Closed Lower—Cash Wheat Higher—Pork Products Closed Higher.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CHICAGO, April 10.—May wheat opened from 54⅞c to 55c, sold to 55⅛@55¼c, closing at 55@55⅛c—¼c under yesterday. Cash wheat was in fair demand for car lots and prices ruled ¼c per bushel higher.

Business was altogether lifeless in the corn pit. The scalpers and floor traders imbibed the feeling of lethargy and, like their companions in wheat, permitted the market to run itself. May corn opened at 45¾c, sold between 45⅝c and 45⅞c, closing at the latter, ⅛c higher than yesterday. Cash corn was steady to firm.

Beyond a little changing from May into the more distant deliveries, there was nothing in oats to attract attention. The spirit of the other markets extended to this and prices moved slowly but presented some firmness through sympathy with wheat and corn. May closed ⅛c to ¼c higher than yesterday. Cash oats were a shade higher, the feeling being strong.

Provisions—The packers took care of products to-day, and when, after a weak opening, prices were on the decline, the buying gradually improved and before the close a complete transformation took place. Armour, as usual, was a prominent factor, the crowd not caring to oppose his movements. The close was 15c higher than yesterday for May pork; 2½c higher for May lard and unchanged for May ribs.

INCOME TAX LAW.

Treasury Officials Still in the Dark as to Exact Meaning of the Supreme Court Decision.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Treasury officials, in the absence of the full text of the Supreme Court decision on the income tax law, are still groping in the dark as to its exact meaning and have, therefore, been unable to send out supplemental instructions to collectors as to how the law that still remains shall be carried out. The collectors will have to be guided, until they receive official instructions, by their own best judgments. Many telegraphic inquiries, both from internal revenue officials and private parties are being received at the Treasury and are being answered as well as they can be with the existing light. It is admitted on all hands, as the matter is more closely studied, that much confusion must necessarily arise from the elimination of rental receipts from returns, as this exception will affect cognate questions. Commissioner Miller is devoting his entire time to straightening out the tangle, and hopes to have comprehensive supplemental instructions ready for issuance by to-morrow at the latest.

STEAMER IN DISTRESS

By Telegraph to the Morning Star

NORFOLK, April 10.—The British steamship Alvana, Captain Dow, bound from Kingston, Ja., to New York, with passengers and general cargo, arrived here last night leaking. It was learned that on the 8th, when in about latitude 31.40, longitude 74.18, and with a heavy sea running, a large plate fell from the bottom of the steamer and the whole of the after-compartments were soon full of water up to the second deck. Three steam pumps and one hand pump were at once put to work, but they could not free the vessel. The passengers became excited and it is said that considerable praying was done. About 240 tons of the steamer's cargo, consisting of coffee, sugar and honey, was thrown overboard, but even this did not seem to help the matter. The cargo jettisoned is estimated to be worth about $24,000. The boats were cleared away and provisioned ready for launching, but fortunately were not called into use. The Alvana arrived here about 12 o'clock last night, and is now anchored off Atlantic City.

ANOTHER ADVANCE

In the Price of Crude Petroleum.

[By Telegraph to the Morning Star.]

PITTSBURG, PA., April 10.—The Standard Oil Company announced to-day that they would pay $1 85 per barrel for Pennsylvania oil. This is an advance of 8 cents since yesterday. There has been no material change in prices in the speculative market.

NEW YORK, April 10.—The Standard Oil Company, has made another advance in the price of field oil from $1.77 to $1 85 and the product in Oil City this morning sold up to $1.47½, with a subsequent reaction to $1.45. No new reasons were assigned for the further rise, the scarcity of product still being the main factor at work.

NEWS OF THE NAVY.

MOVEMENTS OF UNITED STATES CRUISERS.

Important and Successful Tests of Armor-Piercing Shell and Percussion Fuses.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The Navy Department to-day invited proposals for gun forgings for the batteries of vessels for the Navy. The advertisements invite all domestic manufacturers of steel to specify upon what terms they will furnish ten sets of rough bored and turned forgings for four-inch breech-loading rifles and twenty sets of rough bored and turned forgings for five-inch breech-loading rifles. The proposals will be received up to and including May 1st, on which day they will be opened.

The cruiser Concord, which left Shanghai yesterday, arrived at Chin Kiang to-day. She is on her way up the Yangtse Kiang river to the interior of China. The Atlanta returned to Colon yesterday after a week spent at Cartagena for coal.

Captain Mahan will be ordered to special duty in connection with the war college at Nepwort during the course there this Summer. This decision was reached to-day after a conference between that officer and Secretary Herbert at the Navy Department, when the Secretary offered him duty involving a general superintendence of the Naval Intelligence Office and the war college duty. The war college was practically founded by Captain Mahan, and he has been much interested in its work, which closely follows the course he originally arranged. The classes will have the benefit of his tactical and strategetical knowledge, but he will have leisure to complete the literary work which he has in hand.

Captain Sampson, Chief of the Bureau of Ordnance of the Navy Department, and his assistants conducted two very important and successful tests at the Navy proving ground to-day at Indian Head, Md. The first was a test of semi-armor piercing nickel steel shell. The shell, as required by the test, passed through a seven-inch nickel steel plate without exploding or exposing the large charge of powder it carried. The second test was that of percussion fuses, and was made to determine at what distance the shell would explode after passing through an obstruction. In this test a screen was erected in the river, and a series of stakes about six feet apart driven behind it. The shells passed through the screen successfully, and burst ten or twelve feet on the other side. The experiment proved successful, as the distance at which the shells exploded was just about what the Department desired. One of the same kind of shells was also fired through a two-inch steel plate, bursting on the other side. A successful test was also made with the six-inch gun on cases.

SEABOARD AIR LINE.

President Hoffman Says the Decision of the Inter-State Commerce Commission Will Not Affect the Situation Materially.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

BALTIMORE, April 10.—President R. C. Curzon Hoffman, of the Seaboard Air Line, said to-day that the decision of the Inter-State Commerce Commission which permits the Southern Railway Company to meet the cut in passenger rates made by the Seaboard to Atlanta without reducing the rate to intermediate points, would not affect the situation materially, except that the decision might give the impression that his line was in the wrong in cutting rates.

Commenting on the decision President Hoffman said: "I no longer see any use of the Inter-State Commerce Commission. That body has virtually given the Southern Railway a weapon with which to fight us, and has repudiated about the only important clause of the Act under which it was created. The long and short haul clause of the law has been upheld by all the courts, and I am surprised that the Inter-State Commerce Commission should be the first to nullify it. I cannot say at present what we will do next, but we are able and ready at all times to protect our rights and property."

WALKING ON A WAGER.

Fred. Miller's Tramp from New York to Jacksonville, Fla.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

JACKSONVILLE, FLA., April 10.—Fred. Miller, the long-distance pedestrian, who is now walking from New York to this city to return on a wager of $500, arrived at the Union station this morning at 10.15 o'clock, thus completing just one-half of his task. He is accompanied by his dog, Guess, a large and powerful pointer. Miller sarted from New York on his journey at 8 o'clock on the morning of February 5th; he has been just sixty-seven days accomplishing half of his task. The condition of the wager was that he was to walk from New York to Jacksonville and return in seven months from the time of starting. He was to start with nothing and was to receive nothing but food and clothing while en route. So far Miller has travelled 1,800 miles. His route was from New York to Philadelphia, to Baltimore, to Washington, to Atlanta, and via Jessup to this city. Miller has lost but seven pounds since he started on his long jaunt. The dog is in fine condition, being slick and fat. Miller expects to remain in the city two days and then start on his return trip.

LYNCHING THREATENED.

A Negro's Narrow Escape at Clifton Forge, Virginia.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

RICHMOND, VA., April 10.—A Clifton Forge special says: About 5 p. m. yesterday, a negro named Armistead Carter, employed by Judge George K. Anderson, of Alleghany county, Va., attempted an assault on Helen Elvin, seven-year old daughter of A. G. Elvin, general foreman of the Chesapeake and Ohio shops at Clifton Forge. Caught by neighbors of the Elvin family before accomplishing his purpose, he was taken by the authorities and hurried off to Covington, Va., on a special train, as a large gathering of men threatened to lynch him. The town was greatly excited for a few hours, but as no harm was found to have been done the child, after an examination by doctors, it quieted down after the negro had been carried away.

RESIGNATION TENDERED.

Dr. Richmond M. Smith Professor in Randolph-Macon College.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

RICHMOND, VA., April 10.—Dr. Richmond M. Smith, Professor of Greek, Hebrew and Sanskrit in Randolph Macon College, Ashland, Va., having taken the position that he does not fully believe in the divinity of Christ, and that all of the Scriptures are inspired has tendered his resignation, and the board have signified their intention of accepting it. Dr. Smith is brother to the President of the institution.

THE WHISKEY TRUST.

President Greenhut Denies the Charges—Discovers Manoeuvre.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

PEORIA, ILL., April 10.—In an interview to-day President Greenhut said: "The charges made against me in the suit filed by receiver McNulta are all false, and I will further say that I agree to pay $1,000 to the charities of this city if any of these parties can produce any evidence to prove that I, or any of the directors of the Whiskey Trust, have appropriated any of the moneys paid by the company in the purchase of any of the properties named in the bill which is said to have been filed."

CHICAGO, April 10.—Forestalling the cyclone which is in store for the old whiskey trust directors at the annual election three of the board to-day resigned. The retiring members are W. N. Hobart, L. Green and J. Walter Freiberg, all the Chincinnati interests Cincinnati distillers are now unrepresented. Had these men not resigned they would have been removed, as it is the intention of the stockholders to get rid of the last vestige of the old crowd.

According to the by-laws of the company, a majority of the board consists of four members. The original board consisted of seven members, and the resignation of Nelson Morris, September 23nd, 1894, left it with only six. To-day's resignations leaves the board with only three members. It is therefore inoperative. The three remaining are President Greenhut, Vice-President John Beggs and Secretary Peter J. Hennessy.

It is said that these three will remain until removed at the election, April 17th.

BASE BALL.

The Record of Games Played Yesterday.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NORFOLK, VA., April 10.—Baltimore had an easy thing defeating Norfolk to-day by a score of 15 to 1, before 1,500 people.

RICHMOND, VA., April 10.—Although they played beautiful ball and a perfect game this afternoon, the Richmonds were unable to score against Boston. They showed much more ability than they have ever done before, and the game was full of interest.

LYNCHBURG, VA., April 10.—The Lancasters, the second strongest team in the Pennsylvania League went down again to-day before the Tobacconists. Score: Lynchburg 9; Lancaster 7.

PETERSBURG, VA., April 10.—The Brooklyns played the Petersburg team this afternoon and had a walk-over. Score: Brooklyn 21; Petersburg 1.

A NEGRO SWINDLER

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

ATLANTA, April 10.—A negro, who said his name was Mitchell, came here six weeks ago soliciting funds from his race. He stated that a case against the "Jim Crow" law was pending in the Supreme Court of the United States. Mitchell told it that Robert Ingersoll, ex Governor Hoadley and other lawyers, had been retained to represent the colored race in the fight. It would take $10,000 to pay the lawyers, he said. His people in Georgia subscribed liberally. Bishop Turner gave $100. A few days ago it was learned that Mitchell was a fraud. When he found that his record was being looked up, he skipped. He got $3,500 from the negroes of Georgia and married a school teacher who finds that he has a wife in Minneapolis, Minn.

TAYLOR'S BAZAAR

Our Millinery Display,

The prettiest, daintiest, most comprehensive this town has ever seen, comprising the latest Parisian ideas in shape and color, in connection with not a few of our own exclusive creations in Bonnets, Toques, Turbans and Hats.

This section, though always strikingly handsome, has taken on at present an appearance of attraction and beauty suggestive of fairyland itself: Lilies, Roses, Orchids, Fleur de Lis, Columbine, Poppies, Dahlias, Pinks, Moss Rose Buds, Holly, Pansies, Violets, Wild Roses, Buttercups, Dandelions, Apple Blossoms, Bluets. Cherry Blossoms and hundreds of others, all combining to form a perfect wilderness of beauty Titania herself might love to rule over.

Straw Hats

In plain and fancy braids, best shaper and colors.

While looking at our Hats the Ladies can take a rest in our Private where Mrs. and Miss Taylor and our New York Milliner and Designer, Miss Gookins, will be glad to show them around. So call early and pick out your
